

ANZSEE Conference 2015

Armidale, New England, Australia: 19-23 October 2015

Thriving Through Transformation Local to Global Sustainability

Conference Information

This biennial conference is organised by the Australian and New Zealand Society for Ecological Economics (ANZSEE). ANZSEE helps create the knowledge and understanding required to build a sustainable society.

The conference attracts participants from academia, public policy, government and consultants. This year the conference has attracted a number international key note speakers including:

- Robert Costanza, Chair in Public Policy, Crawford School, ANU; co-founder ISEE
- Haydn Washington, Visiting Fellow, UNSW and author, Demystifying Sustainability
- Snow Barlow, leading Australian Agricultural Scientist - climate change and food and water security, Melbourne University

The conference will be hosted by the University of New England Business School in the picturesque regional town of Armidale, New South Wales. Themes for the conference include but are not limited to:

- Place-based perspectives on sustainability and transformation
- Institutions for resilience and transformation
- Making the marginal mainstream: expanding horizons – expanding rights

Covering a transdisciplinary field, the conference will explore the multiple relationships between complex and interdependent social, economic and ecological systems and is well placed to explore and address how to thrive through transformation by providing ideas for local to global sustainability. Specifically pluralistic and integrative approaches will be used to interrogate these systems with an appetite for collaboration and learning (See <http://anzsee.org/> for more information).

Sponsorship Opportunities

Sponsors will be recognized for the support and interest in the conference. In addition to logos, complimentary registrations (including the Conference Dinner), sponsors can benefit by supporting specific events, keynote speakers, and/or specific sessions; and rotating banners during the breaks will be displayed accordingly. We are happy to discuss specific ideas and needs for sponsors as appropriate. The table over the page contains an indicative list of benefits associated with sponsorship.
